Everyone,

We are extremely excited to announce that Mr. Hunter Hays has become the newest member of the Quadax Valves, Inc. team in the role of Western Regional Sales Manager. Hunter started work with the team at the beginning of January and will be responsible sales & marketing activities in our western region and parts of the state of Texas in conjunction with Wallace Hancock.

Hunter joined our team having been employed by Samson Controls most recently and with a great deal of market sales expertise and product knowledge. He has 12 years of experience in specialty valve sales focused primarily in the Gulf Coast and some assignments into the western states of the USA during his tenure. QVI is excited to utilize Hunter's experience and network to enhance our product expansion and market growth.

Scott Moreland, VP of Sales for QVI notes: "Bringing in a personality like Hunter's with the sales background and product knowledge will only enhance our current strong team and help us expand the brand. We were very fortunate to find someone of Hunter's caliber to join us in the unprecedented period of growth for our company. We are looking forward to what he will bring to the equation with a history of success into underserved geographical areas for us in the North American market."

Hunter is a graduate of Lamar University, where he was on the Dean's List academically, and also an alumni of McNeese State, where he was on the university baseball team. Hunter is married and a father of two girls. He spends his off time helping coach his daughter's sports team, along with hunting & fishing. He will continue to live in the Houston area and service the territory from there.

Please join us in welcoming Hunter to the QVI Team.
